The National Women's Law Center and the National Employment Law Project invite you to participate in a webinar concerning issue spotting and best practices for intakes when providing legal support to low-wage workers and low-income clients with workplace disputes.

Workers in low-wage industries are especially vulnerable to both sexual harassment and other forms of discrimination, wage and hour violations and retaliation for reporting these issues. By establishing a comprehensive intake process and providing a baseline knowledge of the law in the areas of wage and hour, anti-discrimination and retaliation, legal advocates can effectively provide workers with the information and knowledge they need create safer, healthier work places.
